

A TRADITION OF Excellence

UNIVERSITY OF FLORIDA COLLEGE OF DENTISTRY
ANNUAL REPORT 2011-2012

Message from the Dean

Winston Churchill said: “To improve is to change; to be perfect is to change often.”

At the University of Florida College of Dentistry we never rest on our laurels, never stop evolving, growing as individuals and as a college. As such, we are well-prepared for the next few years which launch a phase of multi-faceted transformation.

We have risen above the challenges we faced in several areas and emerged stronger, having protected the successful community service, patient care and research programs we had in place, and build new successes with advanced education programs, clinical initiatives and a complete renovation of our main lobby.

And while we never truly expect to reach perfection, we do expect to maintain our excellence through continuous improvement in all aspects of our mission.

To that end, one major project we launched is a comprehensive D.M.D. curriculum revision. This project has multiple drivers including a need to change our teaching methodologies to better teach today’s students, who learn differently. We need to adapt to the rapid changes in the dental profession, integrating new technologies and therapeutic options, and better preparing our students for today and tomorrow’s real world dentistry.

We are also beginning an Accreditation Self-Study in August 2013 to prepare our college for the Commission on Dental Accreditation site visit scheduled for February 2015. The accreditation standards have undergone major changes, yet another compelling reason for our curriculum revision process.

Another step in our coming evolution is that, after 10 years serving as dean, I have decided step down in June 2013. I can honestly say that serving as dean of this amazing college has been more rewarding and fulfilling than I would have ever imagined. I am grateful for the opportunity I had to work with the highly talented faculty and staff at UF, and to have played a role in the education of tomorrow’s leaders in the oral health profession.

I am also leaving UF to take a position in the corporate world and will miss so many aspects of this great university. But while so many things change, one thing will remain the same: I will always be a Florida Gator and a Gator Dentist.

Warm regards,

Teresa A. Dolan, D.D.S., M.P.H.
Professor and Dean

Vision

The vision of the College of Dentistry is to be an internationally recognized dental school known for an innovative educational program, commitment to cultural diversity, discovery, transfer of scientific knowledge, the superior skills of our graduates, and the highest degree of service.

Mission

Our mission is to achieve excellence in the art and science of dentistry through teaching, research, and service.

Patient Care

The college provides high-quality dental care in UF-owned and partnership dental centers located throughout Florida. This past year, significant renovations of the first floor lobby and several clinical centers were completed.

Dental students provide dental care in our Gainesville community as well as in community-based clinics throughout Florida that primarily treat underserved patients, including at-risk children, migrant workers and the homeless. The UF Statewide Network for Community Oral Health delivered 124,000 patient visits in FY 11-12, with 79 percent of those to patients who live at or below 200 percent of federal poverty levels. And 22,305 of those visits were for children.

Increasing access to care for Florida's underserved is a cornerstone goal for the college, especially during these troubled economic times. To that end, the college created an Oral Health Plan in conjunction with an Alachua County Coalition that collected unprecedented oral health surveillance data on all third-graders in the county, applied preventive dental sealants and referred children with major oral health issues for care to local dental centers. The program was so successful it was mirrored in Collier County this year with the help of the college's NCEF Pediatric Dental Center in Naples. The college also received a HRSA grant to support postdoctoral public health education for residents enrolled in our pediatric dentistry programs in Gainesville and Naples.

Education

The college continues to be recognized as one of the top dental educational programs in the country. This year the Admissions Committee received more than 1,500 applications for 83 available positions, enabling the committee to select the best and brightest students for the D.M.D. program. For the fourth year in a row, UF D.M.D. students achieved a 100 percent first-time pass rate on the National Dental Board Examination, Part 1.

The college has committed to a significant curriculum revision, and received a five-year $2.5 million grant from the Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA) to fund faculty development activities supporting “Dental Institution Curriculum for the 21st Century.” A four-year $3 million grant was received from HRSA to provide scholarships for dental students. The award will help the college recruit and retain qualified students from disadvantaged backgrounds, with the goals of improving access to health professions education and fostering a diversified health workforce for Florida.

Research

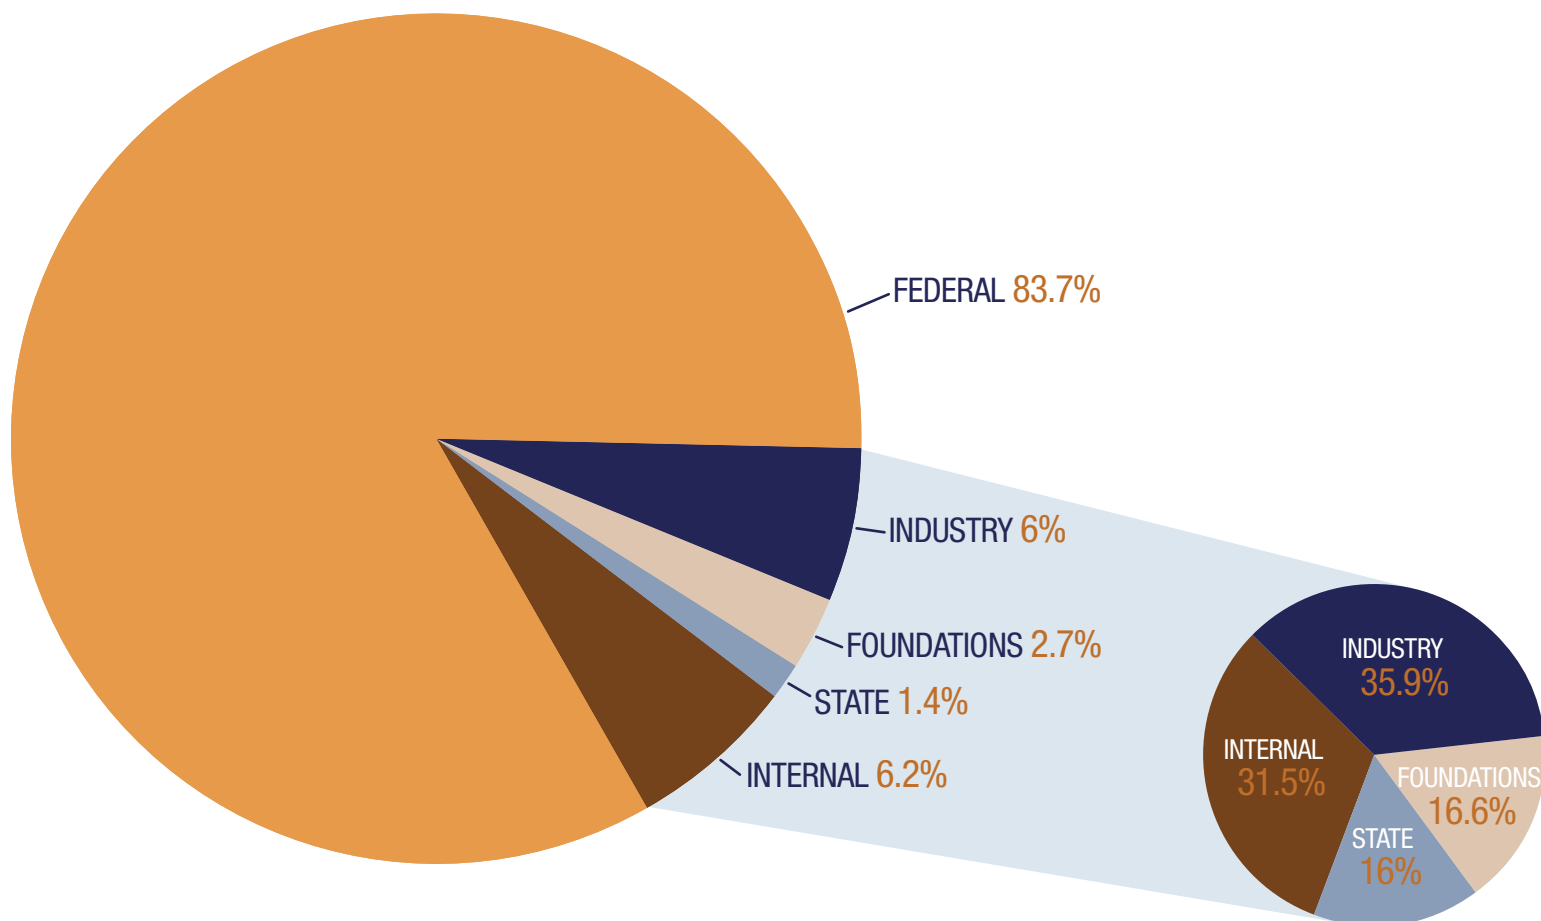

The college's research enterprise continues to expand interdisciplinary and collaborative efforts through programs like the National Dental Practice-Based Research Network, a national research network of dentists and hygienists. UF is one of seven institutions awarded a portion of a $67 million, seven-year grant from the NIDCR that brings together three regional networks, creating a national network that allows dentists practicing in rural areas to participate in research projects.

In collaboration with the Clinical and Translational Science Institute (CTSI), the college is expanding its Dental Clinical Research Unit, the Sensory Testing Unit, as well as support for clinical investigators. The college is also taking the lead on the UF Pain Research and Intervention Center of Excellence (PRICE), which will support the integration of pain treatment and research under one center with the goal of expanding research and improving the delivery of comprehensive pain medicine care to patients.

Our research program is ranked 10th among all dental institutions in the United States for NIH research funding through the National Institute of Dental and Craniofacial Research, and our goal is to regain our "top 5" status with the recruitment of new faculty to the college.

Florida Tomorrow

Supporting Excellence: Florida Tomorrow Campaign comes to a successful close

In September 2005, the University of Florida launched an ambitious seven-year campaign that envisioned making the world a better place and shaping a tomorrow where people everywhere could live healthy, abundant and meaningful lives.

The College of Dentistry set a goal of $15 million for the Florida Tomorrow Campaign that was centered around our teaching, research and service missions.

Despite a challenging economy during most of the campaign, the college attracted enormous support and was one of the first at the University of Florida to surpass the college goal. Current campaign support to scholarships, renovations, programs, annual funds, endowments and a variety of other programs and projects reached $18,351,270, 22 percent above expectations. We are grateful to the many individual, foundation and corporate donors whose support and gifts for the college provided the margin of excellence necessary to keep the college at the forefront of dental education, clinical care and research.

One of the top gifts during the campaign came from the generous support of the Naples Children and Education Foundation (NCEF). Their gift impacted an entire county.

At the time of the campaign's launch in 2005 more than a third of the children (17,000) in Collier County, Fla., had no access to basic dental care. A report showed that in one elementary school nearly 70 percent of the children had untreated decay and 18 percent had acute dental disease requiring immediate care.

While not often recognized as a health crisis, severe medical complications resulting from minimal oral care and treatment can be extremely dangerous or even fatal. Tooth decay is the single most common chronic childhood disease, outranking asthma and hay fever.

The NCEF took action through support from the Naples Winter Wine Festival. Their gift of nearly $6 million helped establish the University of Florida College of Dentistry NCEF Pediatric Dental Center on the Naples Campus of Edison State College to provide specialized comprehensive dental care to children in southwest Florida.

The center, which also houses a two-year pediatric dental residency program, saw the first patient on Dec. 3, 2008. Today the center has treated thousands of Collier County children in almost 40,000 patient visits. NCEF's support has had a ripple effect, creating public/private partnerships that further enhance the center's ability to provide necessary, state-of-the-art care. Nearly 40 percent of the children seen at the center have such severe decay that they require various types of sedation as part of their treatment. Two local hospitals, Physician's Regional Hospital and Lee Memorial Hospital, partner with the dental center, providing the use of their surgical suites when treatment requires general anesthesia.

NCEF's gift has also inspired support at the national level from organizations like Oral Health America and Wal-Mart. In fall 2011, OHA contributed $20,000 and Wal-Mart matched their gift with an additional $50,000 to launch a successful pilot dental sealant program. Healthcare Network of Southwest Florida, the Ronald McDonald Care Mobile and the college's faculty and leadership worked together to provide dental screenings for 520 second-grade children in six low-income Collier County schools. In an effort to prevent cavities on their first permanent molars, they also placed dental sealants for 339 children.

“Simply put, the NCEF’s contribution to our college raised the profile of oral health in this community. The leaders here are now educated about, and committed to, creating a better oral health future for the underserved children in their county,” said Lauren Governale, D.M.D., M.P.H., the director of the dental clinic and a UF faculty member.

There is still work to be done. Of the 212 practicing dentists in Collier County, only 9 percent accept Medicaid patients. During the 2011 pilot sealant program, exams showed that 62 percent of the children had dental decay on permanent molars, and 7 percent were referred for urgent care. Scott Tomar, D.M.D., Dr.PH., a UF professor who specializes in public health dentistry, is working with Governale, the NCEF, Healthcare Network of Southwest Florida, the Collier County Health Department and others in Collier County to develop a five-year plan to provide education and outreach in order to prevent dental decay in at-risk children in the county.

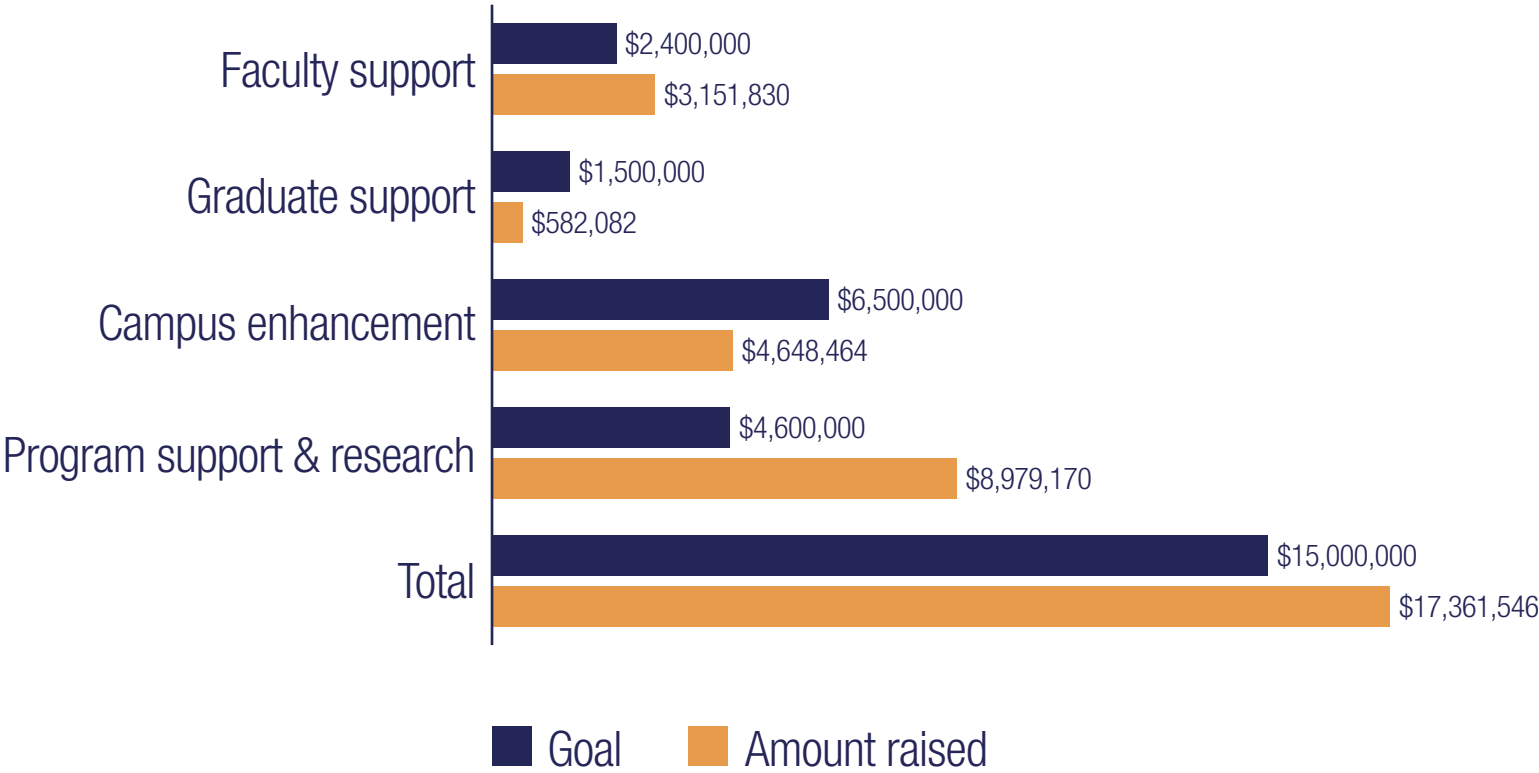

Other key gifts came from individuals, corporations, alumni and friends and helped shape a better future for the college’s teaching, research and service missions.

- Edward Quinn pledged $2 million to establish the Dr. Franklin D. Dolwick Chair in Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery.
- Corporate partners gave almost $3 million in gifts, gifts in kind and direct support for training programs.
- Foundations and corporate partners played an integral part in our research mission through over $1.2 million in research funding.
- Dr. L. Clark and Mrs. B.J. Hodge gave $679,200 to establish the Clark & B.J. Hodge Professorship in Orthodontics.
- The Special Day Foundation made gifts totaling $235,000 to fund care for special needs children and adults at the St. Petersburg Dental Center.
- The Andrew J. Semesco Foundation funded a Semesco Fellow and supported oral cancer research with gifts totaling $225,000.
- With gifts totaling $127,950, Dr. Ronald H. and Mrs. Barbara Abel established an endowed scholarship fund in support of D.M.D. education.

Florida Tomorrow is a belief that excellence in dental care grows from excellence in scientific discovery, dental care delivery and education.

Florida Tomorrow means a day when dental caries is no longer the leading infectious childhood disease. Florida Tomorrow is a place where all Floridians have equal access to dental care.

Alumni Profile

Dr. Gregory D. Reddish, Class of 1980

Greg Reddish, D.M.D., believes that the University of Florida College of Dentistry has the best alumni and friends in the country, "I am very proud of our alumni and our friends for the level of support they give; as volunteers, as donors and as leaders."

He came to the University of Florida in 1976 for dental school and thoroughly enjoyed the experience. Here he began friendships with fellow students that remain strong today, and have made a difference in his life personally and professionally. After graduation, Reddish established a general dental practice in Orlando and continues to work full time.

"Being a UF College of Dentistry graduate opened many doors for me and created opportunities I would never have had otherwise. The general public holds UF graduates in high esteem and that has led to an advantage over graduates of other dental schools," he said.

To do his part to maintain that level of excellence, Reddish volunteers his time and supports the college philanthropically. "I want to do what I can to enhance the dental school experience for today's students and, with that goal in mind, I try to stay active in leadership volunteer roles as an alumnus."

He was named 2011 Outstanding Alumnus for the college and has served twice as the president of the Academy of Alumni and Friends. Currently he serves as class leader for the Class of 1980 and chairs the college's Development Advisory Committee. In his role as chair, Reddish works with the dean and the development office to further the success of current and future fundraising campaigns.

Reddish has also been generous with his personal support, contributing to the annual fund every year for nearly 30 years and making a multi-year commitment of $10,000 in 2012.

He distinguished himself as one of the largest alumni contributors to the college with a bequest commitment of $100,000 in 2008. Reddish hopes that his personal support will help maintain the college's high academic standards and that others will follow his lead by volunteering and contributing to the school by making a gift.

In inspiring others to be active with the college, he says, "Remember how things were when you were in dental school and think about the difference you can make through volunteering and other contributions. Then take a deep breath and dive in!"
